“ Impossible to choose just one memory. Let me bunch all of them into one common scenario for Dick, and we can't forget, Ruth. They had four children in this HUGE house as we were growing up. But not very often was it just the four! Whether it was 8am or 8pm, from 4th grade to HS graduation, these two wonderful people were dealing with a few more kids constantly wearing out their welcome as most kids/teenagers do!

From constantly knocking on the door at 8am on summer mornings, raiding the pantry minutes later, running up and down the halls upstairs, they dealt with it honorably! From finding stolen objects in the garage to getting knocks on the door from strange people who just had snow balls thrown at them as they passed by, these two were always cool about it (well, Denny, Al and Jim may have got the scolding, I can't verify!)

The constant teasing Lisa got from any one of four or five extra boys in the house, poor Ruth needed a referee shirt!

I could go on and on, and on!

Dick was a smart man, worked his butt off, the old school way. Very logical thinker, and a great business man. He was a true family man.

Rest in peace Dick, you deserve it :)
