“ I’m not even sure where to begin. From chasing me around the house trying to either get me with water or shave cream. Trying to be all innocent with the pranks that continued for years. Never a dull moment. Always laughing and down to have fun. His random stops by my house if him and his wife seen us outside. Always asking if he can help my family in anyway. Bring me Mexican at work. Or his random here is a pop for work today. His funny snaps and his cheerful self about Matt racing. He would always tell me but u know u love me and that indeed I did! Ur truly gonna be missed so much
